6 Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises are described as a core priority sector for bank lending in India.

MSMEs contribute significantly to employment and output, making MSME finance knowledge valuable for bankers.

7 Banks should generally not insist on collateral security for Micro and Small Enterprise loans up to a specified limit, commonly cited around Rs 10 lakh.

This collateral-free lending norm supports easier credit access for small enterprises, subject to confirmation on the latest notification.

8 EDI in the MSME context commonly stands for Entrepreneurship Development Institute.

EDI is an institution associated with fostering entrepreneurship development in India.

9 Securitization involves pooling financial assets to create a security instrument for sale in the financial market.

This is a standard financial concept tested in the MSME exam's conceptual questions.

10 A loan with a repayment period of 3 years or more is generally classified as a Term Loan.

Term loans are distinguished from short-term facilities like cash credit or overdraft by their longer repayment period.

11 The Coir Board implements the scheme for Rejuvenation, Modernization and Technology Upgradation of the Coir Industry.

This is one of the sector-specific schemes tested in MSME exam questions about implementing institutions.

12 SIDBI and NSIC are commonly tested institutional support bodies for MSMEs in the exam syllabus.

These institutions provide credit and marketing support respectively to small and medium enterprises.

13 MSME classification and definitions form a foundational, high-priority topic cluster in the exam.

Understanding classification underpins most other MSME finance questions in the exam.

14 Government schemes and institutions form a high-priority, fact-heavy topic cluster in the MSME exam.

These questions are frequently tested and reward memorisation of scheme details.

15 Candidates preparing for the MSME exam are advised to solve previous year question papers under timed conditions.

Timed practice with real questions builds both accuracy and exam-day speed.
